Head Quarters, Boston, Nov. 8. 1852.

My Dear Friend/

The promise I made you is half performed. I have read "Pride & Prejudice". You have not overpraised the accomplished authoress. The Characters are well conceived, and finely executed. Mrs Bennet, Darcy, and Elizabeth, are admirably drawn. The Scenes are very life-like— The Style, pure, delicate, and pure. I shall begin on the other / Sumner / immediately. I was greatly pleased with Sumner's Speech at the Free Soil Meeting. It was bold, and / up to the Standard of Free Soilism / uncompromising. Some passages in it were Equal to any thing I have read. The Meeting was large, the Spirit good, the Vote Unanimous. I Spent a part of last Evening in the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, and wished it were my lot to be imprisoned for a year in its Chambers. This Morning I am off with Garrison to Mount Auburn. To Morrow I go to Amesbury, on a Visit, till Monday, to the American Port, Whittier. The application for Faneuil Hall has not yet been successful. It stands over for consideration till Monday! What does this mean? I was last night favored with a very Complimentary anonymous letter. I am to have "tar and feathers, and "Hell to the latter," if I dare to "open my mouth publicly". So says, - "One of the Spirits of 1775." "This first Nation will not brook the ignorance, insolence and impertinence of the incendiary, Thompson".

William & Ellen Crafts are off to Halifax, via Portland and St Johns, N. B.; thence, per Canada Steamer, to Liverpool. God speed them! they are noble specimens of humanity. I attended the funeral services over the body of Mrs Lovell yesterday. Mr. Pierpont officiated.

Garrison is impatient. I must close. My affectionate remembrance to yr father Mother and Sisters. Dear Anne, I want you to give me a brief sketch of the Westons and Chapmans. I will not misuse or abuse yr confidence. Give me some account of the two families. The names in full — the dates as correct as possible, & &c. will you?

With thou? I know them with. Thy bright eye Speaks Consent.
And in that pleasing thought,
Yours Truly
George Thompson
Rest Content.
